President And Bond Lead Poll

One week before they make their final decision, an increasing number of Sedalia voters apparently have taken that political posture that makes forthright prediction impossible — fence sitting.

Of the 100 voters interviewed in The Democrat-Capital's second gubernatorial and presidential preference poll, 45 said they were undecided about their choice for president, while 48 were similarly uncommitted in the governor's race.

These figures reflect an increase in the number of undecided voters since the appearance Oct. 10 of the first Democrat-Capital poll. At that time, 28 voters were unsure in the president's race and 17 were undecided in the governor's contest.

The final results, however, confirmed the previous poll's findings in giving President Nixon and Christopher S. "Kit" Bond a continued lead over their Democratic opponents, Sen. George McGovern and Edward L. Dowd. The final results were Nixon 40, McGovern 15, and 28 undecided; and Bond 36, Dowd 20, and 44 undecided.

Among those persons expressing a preference, President Nixon displaced fellow-Republican Bond as the leading local vote-getter. Nixon's tally of 40 was four more than Bond's 36. In The Democrat-Capital's previous poll, Bond recorded 53 in finishing six votes ahead of Nixon.

On the Democratic side, gubernatorial hopeful Dowd outdistanced McGovern by a four vote margin, 20-16.

The comments of many persons interviewed as to their choice for president reflected the upsurge of indecision. "I don't like either one of them," one person said. "I'm definitely not for Nixon and I'm not sure McGovern is any better."

"It seems like a choice between two undesirables," said another.

"I have some papers here I need to read before I decide," responded a third.

The results of a poll in five West-Central Missouri counties, conducted by the Kansas City Star and the St. Louis Globe Democrat, were obtained by The Democrat-Capital for Pettis County, and show the following breakdown of percentage responses:

Nixon, 49.4; McGovern, 29.9; undecided, 20.7.

Bond, 47.1; Dowd, 36.8; undecided, 16.1.

For lieutenant governor, Schramm (D), 40.2; Phelps (R), 21.8; undecided, 38 per cent.

For state treasurer, Spainhower (D), 39.1; Parker (R), 24.1; undecided, 36.8.

For attorney general, Danforth (R), 46 per cent; Spain, 34.4; undecided, 19.6.

For secretary of state, Kirkpatrick (D), 44.8; Kuehle (R), 19.5; undecided, 35.7.

The poll was released Monday, and covered five West Central Missouri counties: Vernon, St. Clair, Pettis, Lafayette and Henry. Overall it showed Bond and Danforth the only GOP candidates having slight edges.

A spokesman for the Kansas City Star stressed that since the survey was of multi-county area, the number of persons polled in each county was relatively small, and cautioned against drawing firm conclusions from the results.

Those responding to the poll in Pettis County gave their party preferences as follows: Democrat, 46 per cent; Republican, 26.4 per cent; and Independent, 26.7 per cent, according to the Star.

Some Dowd Spots Dropped By Radio

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Five or six radio stations have declined to use some campaign commercials for Edward L. Dowd, Missouri Democratic gubernatorial candidate, reports Dowd headquarters in St. Louis.

Dowd's headquarters replied to a query after two radio stations in Kansas City refused to air some of the commercials. The Democratic candidate's broadcast campaign has drawn sharp reaction from the Republican camp, whose candidate, Christopher Bond, has been the central figure in the Dowd attacks.

Atty. Gen. John Danforth, here Monday on a campaign tour with Bond, said "the recent character assassination (of Bond) has become the gist of the Dowd campaign."

Walt Lochman, station manager of KMBZ here, said the station rejected three commercials sent to radio stations Friday for broadcast beginning Monday. Bond is challenged in the commercials on where he went to grade and high school, his tax payment record and his residence qualifications.

"We felt they were all of a personal attack nature — all three of them," Lochman said.

James Erwin, general manager of station WHB, said he declined to use two of the tapes, but accepted the one relating to where Bond attended grade and high school. Bond is responding to the tape by purchasing air time for comments from a former teacher in Mexico, Mo., Erwin said.

The official State Manual of Missouri carries a biography of Bond stating he attended grade and high school at Mexico. Earlier Dowd commercials charged Bond filed false affidavits on where he maintained his residence, failed to file Missouri tax returns and generally questioned his familiarity with the state's problems.

After graduating from the University of Virginia law school, Bond served as a law clerk in Georgia and practiced law in Washington.

The Missouri Constitution requires a candidate for governor must have lived in the state 10 years immediately before his election. In July the Missouri Supreme Court ruled Bond met the residence requirement.

Seeking Benefit Of Nixon's Veto

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern and running-mate Sargent Shriver sought today to capitalize on President Nixon's veto Monday of two bills to assist the elderly.

"In an effort to obtain the votes of more than 20 million older Americans, Mr. Nixon's TV campaign advertisements are filled with pious promises, most of which are plainly untrue and most of which have been flatly contradicted by this veto," McGovern said.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, meanwhile, tried to capitalize on a statement by McGovern that he would reserve the right to try to renegotiate a provision in Vietnam peace agreement providing for continued military aid to the present South Vietnamese government.

"After 10 years of blood, sweat and tears the United States is closer than ever before to the honorable peace for which so much national sacrifice has been made. Yet, Mr. McGovern says that he would renegotiate that honorable peace, betray our Vietnamese ally and agree to an American surrender," Agnew said in a Monday night radio broadcast.

With only a week remaining in the 1972 campaign, McGovern, Shriver and Agnew all had appearances scheduled today. President Nixon had planned to campaign in Chicago today, but cancelled the trip after a train accident killed 44 persons there on Monday.

McGovern cancelled plans for a torchlight parade with Mayor Richard J. Daley in Chicago on Wednesday because of the tragedy. McGovern's schedule today included stops in Syracuse, N.Y., New York City and Jersey City, N.J.

In remarks prepared for Syracuse today,

McGovern charged that Nixon is "afraid to stand up to the gold-platers and the big wasters in the Pentagon, just as he is afraid to come out and face the American people in this campaign."

He said that as long as defense spending remained unchecked, there would be "four more years of a sagging economy and domestic neglect" under a second Nixon administration.

McGovern Monday called President Nixon "Mr. Veto" because of his veto of 11 bills, including the Older Americans Act and a new program of research into the problems of aging.

President Nixon explained those vetoes in a radio broadcast Monday, saying the bills provided for greater outlays than could be managed practically, plus they overlapped existing programs.

He pledged to seek property tax relief for elderly citizens as one of "my highest priority proposals" if re-elected.

Caution
Is Urged
By Chief

Sedalia Police Chief William Miller urged motorists to drive with increased caution tonight as Sedalia youngsters take to the streets to celebrate Halloween.

Miller said parents should dress their trick-or-treaters in light-colored clothing so the youngsters are more easily seen by motorists. He said youngsters should not wear masks which cover the eyes and hinder their view of traffic.

Miller also recommended that parents:

- ✓ Accompany the children on their rounds.
- ✓ Limit the trick-or-treaters to the immediate neighborhood where the youngsters are known.
- ✓ Make sure the children are home by 9 p.m.
- ✓ Put on a porch light if they wish the trick-or-treaters to call on their residence.

Campaign Cost Revealed By Governor Candidates

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Christopher S. Bond's campaign for governor has cost at least $353,386, Bond's campaign staff says.

The Republican state auditor filed his fifth list of contributions and expenses Monday night, naming 2,189 contributors who gave a total of $117,500.

Of the expenditures, $162,000 was spent for radio and television advertising. The total of $353,386 was spent by the Bond for Governor Committee and did not include some of Bond's personal expenses.

Bond's opponent, Democrat Edward L. Dowd, has estimated he will spend less than $300,000 on his campaign.

The limit set by state law on spending for a statewide campaign is computed on the basis of 25 cents a vote multiplied by the number of votes cast in the 1968 election for governor. That would be $452,375.

Bond's staff also announced that Bond and Dowd will debate tonight at 9 on WDAF-TV, Kansas City, and Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. on KSD-TV, St. Louis.

In another development, Bond claimed the endorsements of the co-chairmen of a group called Democratic Students Working for a Better Government. The co-chairmen are Jeff Wolfer, a junior at Central Missouri State University, and Rich Gross, a senior at the University of Missouri at Columbia.

Total contributions for Bond since he announced for governor are $653,658. Bond's press aide, Jacob Wolfe, said that includes $192,227 contributed by Aug. 2 for the primary campaign.

Bond also filed with the secretary of state a list of personal assets and stock transactions worth $900,000.

During the weekend, Dowd reported he received $104,715 in contributions before May 10, and an incomplete list of contributions from May 10 to the Aug. 8 primary amounted to $89,600, for a total of $194,331.

Dowd's list showed that Pipefitters' Local 562 in St. Louis gave $7,500, and more than $19,000 has come from various Teamsters Union locals.

Bond said he had common stock in Braniff Airways, National Airlines, Amerada Hess Corp., Washington Post Co., Suburban Propane Gas Corp., and Redman Industries, Inc.

Bond's affidavit with the secretary of state also showed he has interest in the Massachusetts Investors Growth Fund, and preferred stock in U.S. Gypsum Co., the parent firm of the A. P. Green Co. of Mexico, which his family owns.

He also owns bonds from the city of Rockwall, the Rockwood R-6 School District of St. Louis County, from the Columbia water and electric utilities, bonds from the Audrain County Nursing Home and bonds from Jackson County.

Lake City Explosion Fatal To Five Persons

LAKE CITY, Minn. (AP) — An explosion which ripped through a variety store about the time several children were coming in and out to collect prizes for a Halloween coloring contest has left at least five persons dead and nine injured.

More than 100 police, firemen and volunteers continued the search through a chilly rain in the early morning hours today for other possible victims of Monday's blast. Authorities held little hope of finding any more survivors and were unsure if other persons were still trapped.

There were 10 to 15 persons in the store when the explosion occurred shortly before the 5 p.m. closing time.

"I happened to be looking across the street when I saw a flash of light, the roof coming down and dust blowing out," said Jerry Nihart, a clerk at a store across the street. "Then the noise came."

The dead, all of the Lake City area, were identified as Mrs. Ray Kehren; her son, Timothy, 10, who died in a Rochester hospital; Kristine McElmury, about 4; and two clerks at the store, Marjorie Freiheit, about 40, and Elaine Dammann, about 32.

Linda Farrington, who operated the two-story concrete block-brick Ben Franklin store with her widowed mother, Mrs. M.G. Farrington, said both were standing near an entrance when the blast occurred.

"There was the boom," she said. "That's about it. That's all I want to say ... all I can say now."

Howard Holmgren, the Lake City representative for the Northern States Power Co., said the explosion was triggered when a bulldozer working on a nearby power company construction project ruptured the power firm's gas main.

Jonesburg Man Dies of Injuries

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — John E. Gabriel, 55, of Jonesburg, Mo., was dead on arrival Monday night at St. Louis County Hospital after his truck ran off Interstate 70 west of St. Louis and struck a road sign, police said.

Officers were investigating the possibility that Gabriel may have suffered a heart attack before the accident occurred, police said.

Jonesburg is in Montgomery County, about 40 miles west of St. Louis.

Volunteers and fire fighting units from surrounding communities converged on the little industrial town which sits along the Mississippi River.

Arid smoke, persistent rain and standing water hampered their efforts. The bodies of the two sales clerks were pulled out of the wreckage about three hours after the explosion.

Bond Issue Topic Of Discussion

Bill Hall, Sedalia Economic Development director, urged members of the Rotary Club to support the bond proposal for a plant and equipment for Alpha Sintered Metals, a new industry wishing to locate in Sedalia, to be voted on Nov. 7, in a brief talk before the group at noon Monday at Hotel Bothwell.

Prior to his talk, Hall passed our prepared questions and answers concerning the $150,000 industrial obligation bond proposal, which, if passed by a two-thirds majority, will provide for the construction of an 11,000 square foot building and the purchase of one of the principal pieces of equipment needed for the operation here.

The program was presented by the Madrigal Group from Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg. The group of 12 voices singing acapella presented nine numbers under the direction of Dr. Conan Castle, head of the vocal music department of the school. The group has been selected to perform before the Southwest division meeting of Music Educators National Conference, Wichita, Kan., later this year.

The program was introduced by Dr. Dave Robinson, October program chairman.

Charles Hofheins, club president, urged full attendance for the meeting next Monday, when Len Gregg, Warrensburg, Rotary District No. 607 governor, will make his official visit to the club and will speak at the noon luncheon meeting.

Guests for the meeting introduced by Jess Walhall were: Robert Heitmeyer, area youth agent for the Missouri Extension Service Sedalia office, with Merle Vaughn; Dr. Roger Hopkins, Fort Bragg, N.C., with Dr. Robinson; Howard McCracken, Lee's Summit, with Walter Savio; Jan Phillips, Sedalia, with her father, Robert Phillips; Pat O'Connor, Sedalia, with Dave Martin; and Mrs.

How Do YOU Feel About Lotteries?

"I'm absolutely opposed to any type of legalized gambling in Missouri." That's what Ed Dowd thinks! He also says. "I don't want to see gambling of any sort in our state . . . lotteries, pari-mutual betting . . . you name it. It just brings in organized crime and that's what I'm going to get rid of. If you feel the same way, then Ed Dowd's your man for Missouri's Governor.

Sure, the people of Missouri want a change. But we all know a change for change's sake isn't the answer. The real answer lies with a mature man of Ed Dowd's unquestioned good character. The son and grandson of policemen . . . a father who understands . . . a man who didn't inherit a thing except an honest respect for the working man, a compassion for those less fortunate and a sincere willingness to help. We can trust Ed Dowd to do the right thing for all the people. Be sure November 7. Vote for Ed Dowd, Democrat for Governor.

Centenarian Is Firm On Newspaper Outlook

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — John Netherland Heiskell, the witty, still-active publisher of the Arkansas Gazette who is nearing his 100th birthday, says the same basic reporting principles of accuracy and fairness prevail today as they did when he wrote his first newspaper article 79 years ago.

"The role of the newspaper is to print the news as fully as it can and to print it impartially," he said in a recent interview. ". . . It can be as loud as it pleases in its editorial columns in opposing the other side, but it should be absolutely factual in its news columns."

Heiskell, editor of the Gazette since 1902, marks his 100th birthday Thursday. The event will be observed with a reception attended by about 750 friends, including E. K. Gaylord, owner of the Daily Oklahoman and Times at Oklahoma City, who is only a few months younger than Heiskell.

"I'm sure that the only reason I'm still around is because of an oversight on the part of the Lord," he said. "I'm sure that He is going to correct that oversight some day. I'm glad He can't make it retroactive."

Born in Rogersville, Tenn., the son of a lawyer, Heiskell began his newspaper career in 1893 on the Knoxville, Tenn., Tribune after graduating from the University of Tennessee. He later worked for the Memphis Commercial Appeal and for the Associated Press in Chicago and Louisville, Ky., before purchasing the Gazette in 1902 in partnership with his father, C. W.; his brother, Fred, and Fred Allsopp of Little Rock.

The Gazette had a circulation of about 6,000. Heiskell recalled, "and that was all it deserved."

From that, he led the morning newspaper to a Pulitzer prize for public service and built it into the largest daily in Arkansas with 112,000 circulation statewide.

The Pulitzer was for the Gazette's editorial opposition to then-Gov. Orval E. Faubus' 1957 effort to prevent desegregation of Little Rock Central High School. Harry Ashmore, then the paper's executive editor, also won a Pulitzer.

Heiskell, who says he is in good health "considering my advanced age," stopped driving his Mercedes-Benz four or five years ago—"I didn't want to become a traffic hazard"—and dropped daily office calls about a year ago. He writes only occasionally now for the Gazette's editorial page, contributing what the newspaper calls "editorial paragraphs," short and usually witty commentaries on the news.

He reads his newspaper critically each day and his staff hears from him often. "I even read the back pages," he said.

Heiskell professed to have no advice for young journalists.

"I've always said that journalists are born just as musicians and artists are born," he said. "If he is born with a gift, he doesn't need advice."

It's Not Just Vegetable Soup

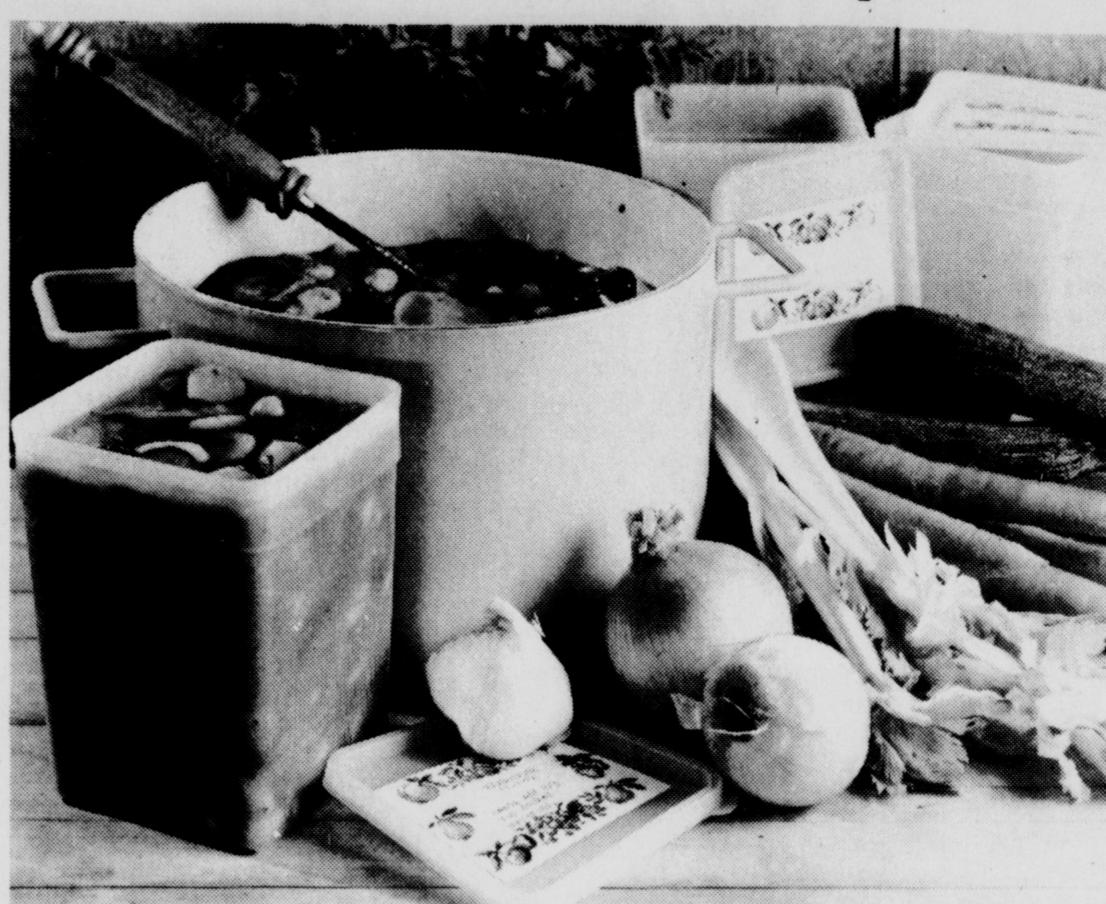

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Mинестрона basically is an Italian soup created by blending a variety of vegetables in a broth base. Although there are many recipes for this filling soup as there are Italian cooks, it traditionally contains legumes such as white kidney beans and chick peas or garbanzos. Thus it has a solid amount of protein, enough to sustain a dieter. Every good minestrone also includes fresh vegetables for aroma and a little meat. This is a good soup to make in large quantities and thus get the full flavor of all ingredients.

Since it freezes well, make a large batch and store in quart-size containers in the home freezer. For best eating results cook vegetables briefly before freezing and add briefly cooked macaroni when the soup is reheated for serving. Label and date containers. Thaw a container of frozen soup in the refrigerator the night before if you know you want it the next day. It will thaw within one half to one hour when the container is placed in a pan of hot water. Reheat slowly since rapid heating tends to overcook some of the vegetables.

Homemade soups are something special and many can be frozen successfully. Pureed soups may separate a bit upon thawing. Beat quickly or put them in a blender to overcome this. Another excellent trick is to make a rich, concentrated chicken or beef soup stock, pour it into ice cube trays and freeze. Transfer "stock" cubes to a plastic bag, label and keep in freezer and use cubes as needed for soups, stews and casseroles.

MINESTRONE
1/4 pound (5 strips) bacon, diced

Italian Soup

A variety of vegetables blended together is the basis for minestrone, a soup that freezes well, if there's any left over. (NEA)

1 cup chopped onions (about 2 medium)	2 zucchini or summer squash, diced (3 cups or 1 pound)
2 cloves garlic, minced	3 quarts water
2 cups chopped cabbage (1/4 head)	1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes
1 cup chopped endive or escarole (4 leaves)	2 cans (6 ounces each) tomato paste
2 cups chopped celery with leaves (4 ribs)	1 tablespoon salt
1/2 cup chopped parsley	4 teaspoons oregano
2 carrots, sliced thin (1 cup)	1 1/2 teaspoon basil
2 parsnips, sliced thin (2 cups or 1/2 pound)	1 can (20 ounces) white kidney beans
	1 can (20 ounces) chick peas or garbanzos
	2 cups (8 ounces) elbow macaroni

Grated Parmesan cheese

Cook bacon in large kettle long enough to render some fat. Add onion and garlic; cook until soft. Add remaining vegetables, water, tomatoes, tomato paste and seasonings. Stir and bring to boil; cover and simmer 30 minutes. Drain beans and chick peas, rinse and drain again. Add to soup and simmer 2 minutes longer.

To Freeze: Set pan in ice water and cool soup completely. Ladle into five 1-quart containers. Use plastic or glass or use milk cartons, top staple removed, washed with warm suds, rinsed thoroughly and dried. Fill nine-tenths full. Restaple tops of milk cartons or add lids (and freezer tape if needed) to other containers. Label and date. Minestrone can be frozen for 2 to 3 months.

To Serve: Thaw container of soup in pan of hot water (about 2 hours) to defrost; turn into saucepan and heat slowly. Meanwhile, for each quart of soup, cook a rounded one-third cup of macaroni in 1 pint boiling water with 1/2 teaspoon salt, 7 to 10 minutes, until tender. Drain and add to soup. Serve with grated cheese. Makes about 5 1/2 quarts.

Underage Teens Are Counseled

By GAIL MILLER
Fresno Bee Writer

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — "Marriage is a national institution, like getting a driver's license," declares Fresno Coun-

DAR Meeting

Osage Chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution met at Arrow Rock for a luncheon Saturday.

Mrs. C. F. Scotten, regent, told of current projects including lap quilts being made for veterans and the cemetery records being compiled.

New members were installed. They are: Mrs. Wayne Davis, Mrs. George Moseley and Mrs. Earl Brown.

Each member was asked to plant a tree and put up a bluebird house.

William Elder, Marshall, spoke about subjects 'beyond the horizon.' He predicted changes, national growth and future problems.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Scotten, Miss Jessie Browneller, Mrs. T. W. Cloney, Mrs. Robert Boothe, Mrs. Leonard Finch, Mrs. Frank Griffen, Miss Maurine Harris, Mrs. Edward Yuille and Mrs. Leroy Hodges.

ty Family Court marriage counselor Leland Bergstrom.

"It is up to us to see if these teenagers are qualified to be married, just as it is up to the Department of Motor Vehicles to see if they are qualified to drive a car."

Bergstrom and a staff of five counselors and volunteers in the Fresno County Family Services Division conduct the counseling sessions required for underage couples requesting court consent to marry.

Surprisingly, Bergstrom says, many times the news of the court's requirements for the counseling sessions comes quite unexpectedly to underage teens applying for a marriage license.

"We have tried to forewarn young people they will have to comply with these rules, but the word just doesn't seem to travel. Usually, they don't find out about them until they make their application for a license."

He added that one big problem is that some couples come in just a few days before the wedding, not knowing the classes take a week to complete. The wedding cake is ordered, the church is reserved, invitations are out and the couple is stunned to find they have been denied permission to marry because they have not attended the counseling sessions. In such cases the couple must either postpone the wedding or go out of the country to be married.

Polly's Pointers

Bacon Is Peeve In the Stretch

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with bacon that is sliced so thin that by the time a slice is freed from the package it is a foot long. A pound is a pound no matter how you slice it. — MRS. J. T. S.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I have a lovely floor lamp that belonged to my mother, which is nicer than any I could buy. I want to keep it forever. The lamp is an expensive make and supposed to be solid brass, but now black appears where it is touched most. I cannot tell if the metal is discolored or if the brass is flaking off. I wonder if anyone can tell me how to refinish this, retard the flaking or whatever. — MRS. J. C.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointers are for Emma who has so many leftover wooden thread spools. Those "cookout people" who need something for roasting marshmallows, in an emergency situation, can use a wire coat hanger straightened out into a dowel-like piece then bent back about four inches into a hairpin shape and find the spools will make a great handle by merely threading the spool centers over the hairpin end. The spools will remain in place because of the double thickness of wire and the wooden handle is fantastic for keeping one's hands from being burned by the heated wire. Three or four small spools threaded onto a section of coat hanger wire can make a wooden handle you may like to have as an aid when carrying heavy packages bound with tape, twine, etc. Remember, when the stores used to give us such handles for carrying a box home? Since these seem to be a thing of the past make some of your own and save your hands. — JANET

Drug Hearings Postponed For Six Persons

Preliminary hearings for six persons charged with drug-related crimes, originally scheduled for Thursday, has been reset for Nov. 16, Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Adam Fischer said.

Fischer said lawyers for three of the defendants requested the delay.

Persons to appear in magistrate court and their charges are as follows: Dale Diefenbach, 26, Route 1, LaMonte, charged with sale of marijuana; Patricia L. Mullis, 19, Route 1, LaMonte, possession of marijuana; Gary D. Bilderback, 22, 2208 West Fifth, sale of amphetamines; Nicholas Niforos, 23, LaMonte, sale of LSD; Louis N. Fosburg Jr., 23, Lee's Summit, sale of amphetamines; Stephen Joseph Williams, 21, Grand Forks, N.D., three counts of sale of hashish and amphetamines.

Mrs. Clara Brown, magistrate court clerk, said Williams posted a $22,500 bond Monday. Magistrate Judge Frank Armstrong previously set Williams' bond at $7,500 for each charge.

The early October arrests of the six stemmed from a lengthy investigation involving federal, state and local authorities.

Seeking Exemption To City Ordinance

A request by Robert Gardner, president of the Bothwell Hospital board of trustees, will be heard tonight by members of the Sedalia Zoning Board of Adjustment.

Gardner Tuesday said he would seek an exemption to a present zoning regulation which would enable the hospital to construct an ambulance driveway immediately up to the property line. Under the present zoning ordinances, any structure built on property in that area must now be set back 25 feet from the property line.

The ambulance entrance will face north on 13th Street.

Man's Condition Remains Serious

A Kansas City man injured in a fall on Ohio Street Sunday was still in serious condition Tuesday in the intensive care unit at Research Hospital, Kansas City.

Ivan Nordyke, 52, suffered a concussion, broken right wrist and bleeding from the left ear and nostril after he fell about 20 feet to the sidewalk from a fire escape platform where he had been cutting bolts.

When Nordyke cut the upper bolts on the platform, the bottom ones gave way, causing him to be thrown to the sidewalk, one witness said.

Nordyke was taken to Bothwell Hospital for treatment and later transferred to Research Hospital in Kansas City.

Diplomatic Sources Set Date For Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomatic sources say the United States and North Vietnam have agreed to resume negotiations that could lead to a cease-fire in Indochina by Sunday.

These sources, members of the foreign diplomatic corps, said South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu could be expected to sign the agreement, despite Saigon's strident statements in recent days.

The State Department would not comment on these reports. But Harry Dent, one of President Nixon's key political advisers, said Monday night he doubts any settlement can be reached within a week's time.

"There will be no push to end the war immediately on our part, and I don't think there is any way it can come before Nov. 7," Dent told newsmen in Atlanta Monday night. "There are still some important things unsettled...."

When word of the impending peace agreement broke last week, North Vietnam demanded that the United States be prepared to sign the papers Oct. 31, Paris time. But White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters Monday "we would not sign such an agreement until the conditions are right."

Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's chief foreign-policy adviser, announced last week that "peace is at hand" but added that one more negotiating session of three or four days would be necessary to nail down details of the proposed cease-fire agreement.

Kissinger said the time and place for such a final session are up to Hanoi, and Nixon administration officials said Monday there is no word from North Vietnam about the next round of talks.

Meanwhile, it was learned that

Thefts From Farms Reported in County

Two weekend thefts at rural LaMonte farms involving firearms, farm equipment and tools were reported to the Pettis County Sheriff's Department Monday.

A shotgun, rifle, chain saw, socket wrenches and other tools were reported stolen by Charles Speck, who lives five miles north of LaMonte, Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said. The theft reportedly occurred Saturday night.

Fairfax said the firearms were taken from a pickup truck and the other items were stolen from a shed on the farm. No estimate of loss was made.

Roger Zimmerschield, who lives about nine miles north of LaMonte, told sheriff's officers that a small portable air compressor and a portable air tank were stolen from his farm between Friday and Sunday. Zimmerschield gave no estimate of his loss, Fairfax said.

Youth Is Injured In Motorcycle Race

Tony Lynn Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Moore, 670 East 14th, was injured during the second heat of a motocross race Sunday afternoon at the Knights of Columbus track near Sedalia.

While going over a bump during the race, Moore, 12, lost control and was run over by another cyclist.

He suffered compound fractures of the left leg and may be out of school for about three weeks.

Hospital Cost Curb Is Urged

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — It is high time we call the cost escalation to a screeching halt in Missouri's hospitals, State Sen. William J. Cason told about 600 hospital administrators today.

"I don't know all the answers to cutting hospital costs for the people; I wish I did," Cason said at a convention of the Missouri Hospital Association.

"But I intend to help you find those answers," the Democrat from Clinton said. "The hospitals must take the initiative or have it taken away from them by the people and certain legislators who are not as friendly toward private enterprise as I am."

"Missouri, next to the federal government, is the biggest customer the hospitals have through our Medicaid program," Cason said. "We are no longer going to be satisfied with the answers that your costs for labor and materials are going up."

"We expect you to use the same intelligence, with which you have built one of the finest hospital systems in the entire country, to attack and solve the problem of costs."

The legislature has instituted several hospital programs when private enterprise couldn't do it, Cason said.

"We now license hospitals and it is but a short step to full state operation," he said. "I don't want this, and I'm sure you don't either."

Cason said he would introduce a bill to permit sending patients home sooner by providing a mobile health squad, headed by a doctor, to be sent to their home each day for post-operative care.

The association named Hazel Hinkson, chairwoman of the Volunteers at Ellis Fischel State Cancer Hospital in Columbia as "Auxiliary of the Year" and Leonard J. Regh of Cape Girardeau as "Auxiliary Man of the Year."

Regh is the first man to receive the award.

They will receive plaques at the convention banquet tonight.

Mrs. Hinkson, of Wilton, Mo., was cited for commuting 34 miles roundtrip three times a week to serve patients at the state cancer hospital.

Regh was honored for organizing "the Men of St. Francis" who give spare-time hours to a variety of volunteer services at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau.

Although recounts may change the result somewhat — they are required in all districts where the leading candidate's margin is less than 25 votes — another election soon seems likely.

As in Britain, the party leader with the most seats in Commons forms the government. It appeared that the next prime minister might not be known for weeks, until the result of the last recount is in. Meanwhile, Trudeau and his Liberal government continue in office.

David Lewis, leader of the rambunctious, rising New Democrats, said he would join neither big party in a coalition.

Being helpful when you need it most is our business.

Prompt consideration of your wishes is a standard we maintain at all times.

Property Tax Relief Promised By PresidentBy FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, apparently backing away from across-the-board property-tax relief, says that if re-elected "one of my highest-priority proposals" will be property-tax relief for older Americans.

Nixon made the scaled-down pledge in a nationally broadcast campaign radio speech Monday afternoon.

Some months ago, Nixon hinted his re-election drive might feature, as its central pocket-book appeal, a plan to sharply reduce the local property taxes of most, if not all, homeowners and businessmen though a federal subsidy system.

Early in the campaign, however, Nixon began talking instead about a qualified pledge to hold the line against federal tax increases.

The qualification was that the Democratic-controlled Congress restrain what Nixon termed "a spending binge."

With the federal budget deep in the red, even before Congress got its hands on major legislation, Nixon and his advisers apparently concluded that, in such circumstances, lower local property taxes across the board could be purchased only at the cost of higher federal taxes.

In keeping with his change of strategy, Nixon told his radio audience that the average elderly citizen in the Northeast must allot 30 per cent of income to pay property taxes.

He asserted: "This is wrong. And we must stop it. One of my highest-priority proposals to the new Congress will be property-tax relief for older Americans."

Nixon announced at the outset of his radio speech that he had signed a Social Security-welfare bill that will increase benefits, mostly going to the elderly and disabled, by $6 billion.

Missing from the bill was the President's plan to reform welfare benefits for poor families with dependent children. In essence, a key feature of the proposals would have guaranteed a minimum annual income of $2,400 a year for a destitute family of four.

Nixon had planned to spend much of today in Chicago, with the centerpiece a noon-hour motorcade through the Loop. He canceled out after learning of the commuter train wreck there.

Guest Artist in Control Of Songs and Audience

Substituting for his ailing wife, baritone William Longmire appeared as guest artist with the Sedalia Symphony Orchestra at its opening concert of the season Monday night in the Smith-Cotton auditorium.

He announced that his wife, Martha Longmire, was ill in Kansas City with the flu. The noted soprano had been scheduled to sing.

Longmire rose admirably to the occasion, however, opening his segment of the program with the "Invocation of Orpheus," by Peri. He followed this with "Caro mio ben," by Giordani, and "To the Evening Star," from Tannhauser by Wagner. He closed the first part of the evening with "Preach Me Not," by Arne.

The guest artist exhibited firm control and range in each selection, and held his audience throughout. His accompanist, Ruth Evans, did a thoroughly professional job, indicating that she too is a first-rate artist.

The orchestra, under Abe Rosenthal's direction, closed the first part of the program with Fugue and Vivace by Corelli, a rich baroque selection in which the strings excelled, and Chop Sticks, a Free Fantasy for Orchestra by Evans, which played the familiar two-finger theme for all it's worth.

Opening the second part of the program was the orchestra playing Merrie England, by Edward German. The four-part arrangement gave the orchestra opportunity to indulge in some lively melodies and rhythms depicting pastoral England.

Longmire turned to a more popular vein in his second portion of the program, singing "Without a Song," "So in Love" and "Climb Every Mountain." The audience was especially responsive to the last number, and called the guest artist and Miss Evans back for two encores, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" and "Song of the Open Road."

The orchestra closed the evening with a medley of top tunes from "Oklahoma!" as arranged by Russell Bennett.

'Women's Lib' Version Controls China Birth

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Chinese version of "women's lib" is helping control births among the 800 million people of China, the world's largest population, says Dr. Lin Ch'iao-chih.

Ninety per cent of Chinese women now are engaged in work or study, rather than staying home and bearing many children, she says.

Dr. Lin, 71, a gynecologist, is one of 12 physicians from the People's Republic of China who today will wind up a nearly three-week tour of medical institutions in the United States.

All were guests Monday afternoon at Syntex Research in Palo Alto, Calif., one of the world's major producers of contraceptive chemicals, and questions put to the visitors in the main concerned China's practices in planned parenthood.

"Before liberation, it used to be the family wanted lots of children," Dr. Lin said. By liberation, she made clear she meant the formation of the People's Republic, but in her remarks in other cities the physician has also indicated she has meant a different role for women.

Infant mortality formerly used to be "very high," but "now has gone down tremendously. Mothers and grandmothers once wanted to have 10 children so that two would survive," but changes in pre-natal and allied health care are keeping more infants alive,

Dr. Lin said. Another factor in China's efforts to control population is that all contraceptive devices, whether "the pill" or intrauterine devices, or operations to tie off a woman's tubes, are free.

Still another factor is the present trend for later marriage, with rural girls delaying marriage to the age of 19-22, and city girls "not marrying until 23 to 25, or among the highly educated many do not marry until age 30," Dr. Lin said.

There is some concern in China as well as elsewhere about side effects from birth control pills, but Dr. Lin said most of the complaints seem to disappear after a few months.

Explanation

Social Security Commissioner Robert Ball, left, and Undersecretary of HEW John G. Veneman briefed the press Monday on the details of the $5.3 billion bill increasing social security and welfare benefits President Nixon said he would sign.

'Yes' vote is urged for registration

Pettis County voters will have the opportunity to express themselves on county-wide registration in next Tuesday's general election. The arguments in favor of adopting such a system far outweigh those opposed.

The proposal will be on the ballot as a result of a petition drive by the Sedalia-Pettis County League of Women Voters, assisted by the Sedalia Jaycees. A total of 2,234 signatures were obtained in the effort, more than enough to bring the proposal to a vote.

Secretary of State Jim Kirkpatrick lent his authoritative voice in support of county-wide voter registration in a talk in Sedalia last week. He said the practice can save counties money in the long run, and cited the example of Worth County, Missouri's smallest, which recently opted for county registration.

The main argument for it, of course, is that it would eliminate the chances for vote fraud by requiring county residents to meet the same registration standards required for Sedalia voters.

Today's mobile population, plus the fact that housing developments outside the city have added more county residents, are arguments in favor of registering all voters. Although some townships have remained stable, others have seen an influx of new people, or a turnover to such an extent that keeping tabs on who is eligible to vote can be very difficult.

Some critics of the proposal say the cost will be excessive. Yet more than half the voters in the county—those living in Sedalia—already are registered. Comparisons with Saline and Johnson Counties, therefore, are not entirely valid, since the registration efforts there involved the cities as well.

The Pettis County clerk has come out in favor of county registration, and says she does not anticipate having to add any additional personnel to handle the load.

A "yes" vote next Tuesday would put Pettis County in the company of the 52 other Missouri counties that have total registration, and would be a positive step forward.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The United States had about 205,000 miles of railroad tracks as of Jan. 1, 1971. The World Almanac notes that one state, Hawaii, has discontinued its railroad service which has been replaced by air, sea and road transit. Texas leads in trackage with 13,616 miles, but Alaska has only 503 miles, making it third lowest, followed by Delaware with 287 and Rhode Island, 146.

A conservative view

A vintage fall in old Virginia

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK
SCRABBLE, Va. — The nicest thing about the campaign trail, to correspondents and to candidates alike, is that the trail must end at last. It ends for me, after one last weekend with McGovern on the Coast, here in the burnished beauty of a Blue Ridge fall.

Our autumns have this in common with the wines of France: They come in vintage years. Last year was nothing much; neither was the year before. But this is vintage autumn. September brought some heavy rains that washed the roadside foliage free of dust. We woke 10 days ago to find a killing frost had come by night, settling on the fields as briskly as a slamming door. Behold the burgundy fall.

For an hour or two, at least, the campaign can be put aside. The road that winds to Woodville is carpeted in gold. One walks through a long cathedral, vaulted now in green and bronze, great shafts of sunlight striking through the heavy oaks. At the bend, just across White Walnut Run, a maple makes a scarlet sanctuary.

It is an exercise for the painter, not the writer, to pause at the bridge and count the colors: Green, of course, but a green that is wholly different from the tints of spring—a somber green, verging close to black. Against the green one counts the browns—dark brown, dull brown, the brown of stained old slippers, a birch that gives up leaves of creamy beige. The browns yield to rusty reds—to crimson, russet, burnt umber. The reds sparkle with yellows, the yellow of lemons, the softer gleam of copper pots well rubbed. Stalks of uncult corn, like gaunt old soldiers clad in faded khaki, stand to one side in ragged array.

It would be lovely enough, this autumn tapestry, if it merely lay in silence on the hills. There will come a time, a few months hence, when snow is on the ground and all the earth is still. But it is part of the glory of a vintage fall that now the eye finds movement everywhere—rippling water and swirling leaves, wind that tangles the hair of a little girl. And always, always, the birds.

We had a guest not long ago, a Western woman, city-bred, who halted a serious bridge game to rush to a window. "What," she asked, in tones of awe, "is that beautiful bird?" We thought the pileated woodpeckers might have come back, or a tanager or an oriole. Dummy got up to look. "Oh," said Dummy, disappointed, "that's only a cardinal."

Only a cardinal? We take our birds too much for granted. One might as well say, only a Browning sonnet, only a prelude by Chopin. This bold red ribbon, streaking above the fence-row, is a thing of beauty as surely as Keats' Grecian urn. To watch the birds on a golden afternoon is to savor the best wealth of all—wealth that never has to be hoarded up, or counted out, or argued away with the tax man; it is a richness that lingers for an instant in the eye and ear, and then endures in the mind.

We walk along the rustling road, down the amber aisle, talking of birds, their wisdom and their ways. They are great respecters of one another—at least most of them are. There are mean ones, such as the cowbirds, and bossy ones, such as the jays and mockingbirds, but birds by and

Nixon's labor pal target of a probe

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — One of President Nixon's favorite labor leaders, who has been inducted into the Republican holy of holies, is under double-barreled federal investigation.

Both the Justice and Labor departments are looking into the doings of Kenneth T. Lyons, a tough and talkative union boss now serving as national vice chairman of Democrats for Nixon. Justice is studying whether he committed perjury in a Mafia-related case, and Labor is investigating charges that he misused union funds.

Lyons heads not only the 100,000-strong National Association of Government Employees but, embarrassingly for him in the present circumstances, the 30,000-member International Brotherhood of Police Officers.

But while government gumshoes have been checking on Lyons, President Nixon has been courting him. The President has appointed him to the prestigious White House higher education advisory council now serving as national vice chairman of Democrats for Nixon. Justice is studying whether he committed perjury in a Mafia-related case, and Labor is investigating charges that he misused union funds.

As an officer of Democrats for Nixon, Lyons also attended the exclusive Texas barbecue which ex-Treasury Secretary John Connally threw for Nixon. But Lyons's entree to the councils of the mighty hasn't deterred the federal sleuths.

His trouble with the Justice Department began last June with Senate testimony about a detergent called Poly-Clean. The product, according to the Senate testimony, is linked to a Mafia family with a record for strong-arm business tactics.

The detergent's maker, David Weiner of Palmer, Mass., was called on the witness stand. His testimony and vouchers he produced showed that, at Lyons's request, he made four trips to Boston to discuss Poly-Clean. One of their lunch and dinner companions, the vouchers show, was Tony Camerota. He is a nephew of the late Nick Camerota, who was the Mafia godfather of western Massachusetts until his recent demise.

Finally, the vouchers tell of an agreement between Weiner and Lyons for distributing Poly-Clean through a company called "Noreast Sales Corporation." Talks about the deal lasted for hours, the vouchers attest.

After Weiner's damning statements, Lyons demanded to testify before the committee. He appeared without a lawyer to deny all the allegations. He swore he didn't know Camerota, had never heard of Noreast Sales Corporation and couldn't recall Weiner's "ever buying me a cup of coffee."

Lyons also testified that he had met with Weiner twice, not four times, that Weiner had tried to get him to push Poly-Clean, but that he had rejected the deal.

The Senate record was so shot with contradictions that it was referred to the Justice Department for possible perjury prosecutions. Within the last few days, the Senate has also sent Justice an article from the Boston Globe identifying two new prospective witnesses in the case.

As for the probe into Lyons's alleged misuse of union funds, the charges were brought by union dissidents. The Labor Department will confirm only that the investigation deals with "financial affairs."

We reached Lyons in Boston for his comments. He talked at length without notes, repeating the same detailed denial he had given under oath to the senators. "The thing is so unreal," he said of the Poly-Clean case. "It comes as a complete mystery to me." On the alleged misuse of funds, he was "confident" he would be cleared.

Weiner, in an earlier talk with my associate Les Whitten, said he ran a clean company with no Mafia ties. He also stuck to his Senate testimony.

It may take the courts to resolve the conflicting stories.

A number of Democratic hopefuls, anticipating George McGovern's defeat next week, are already jockeying for positions in the 1976 presidential sweepstakes.

They include three of the Senate's most able and articulate members—Indiana's Birch Bayh, Idaho's Frank Church and Minnesota's Walter Mondale. All three have told friends, however, that they will step aside if Sen. Ted Kennedy seeks the nomination.

McGovern is also expected to make a second bid if he isn't too badly mauled by the voters next Tuesday. But he might have trouble simply keeping his Senate seat, since he must come up for re-election in 1974 in conservative South Dakota.

McGovern's two vice presidential choices, Tom Eagleton and Sargent Shriver, are almost making presidential noises in private. But Eagleton wouldn't likely challenge Kennedy and certainly Shriver will give his eminent brother-in-law first crack at the nomination.

Once again on Nov. 7, millions of Americans will scan their ballots and place their marks beside the old familiar names. The names Long in Louisiana or Kennedy in Massachusetts or Brown in Ohio are worth thousands of votes.

Ohio citizens have been voting for Browns since they elected Ethan Allen Brown to the statehouse back in 1818. Today, Ohio politics is positively teeming with Browns. William J. Brown, an unknown attorney until his first try for election office in 1970, is now state attorney general. Lt. Gov. John W. Brown was a state highway patrolman until he started running for office. Ted W. Brown, thanks in part to his name, has served continuously as secretary of state since 1950.

Clarence J. Brown, who was elected lieutenant governor in 1919 at age 25, wound up in Congress for 27 years. When he died in 1965, he was succeeded by Clarence J. Brown Jr.

Former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, ex-Secretary of State Thad Brown and ex-Judge Clifford F. Brown are still political powers in Ohio.

Now Justice Lloyd Brown is running for re-election to the Ohio Supreme Court. His opponents: Paul W. Brown and William B. Brown.

Money can be drafted

WASHINGTON — As the war comes to an agonizing, screeching halt, great minds are at work in this country trying to figure out a way we can avoid getting ourselves into such a mess again.

Many solutions have been offered. My favorite is the Haak Plan, suggested by Leo Haak of East Lansing, Mich.

Mr. Haak told me, "The reason the war lasted so long was that only the young people in this country were truly involved in Vietnam. While the rest of the country grew rich and fat, this small minority of the population, with no political clout, was shipped off to Indochina to hold back Communist aggression. This made it rather easy for the rest of the Americans to show no urgency to end the war."

"That's true," I said. "But what do you propose?"

"The Haak Plan provides that if you draft young men to fight a future war, then you must also draft the money of the men too old to go, to pay for it."

"How would it work?"

"When a man became 40 years old, he would register for a wealth draft. His peak earning years are from 40 to 53, just as the peak physical years of a young man are 18 to 26. A lottery would be held and the man would be assigned a number according to his birthday. Those with low numbers would have to turn over all their money to the government to finance the war."

"Those with high numbers could go about their lives just as young men with high draft numbers go about their business without fear of being called up."

"Would you have draft boards?" I asked.

"Yes," Haak replied. "They would be composed of young men under the age of 26."

"Why young men?" I asked.

"Well, you have older men sending off young men to die in a war, so you should have young men deciding who must give their money to pay for it. The draft board could give exemptions in hardship cases and deal with conscientious objectors."

"By conscientious objectors you mean those who refuse to give money to a war because it's against their religion?"

"Yes, exactly. If a man can prove he is a serious conscientious objector, we would let him donate his wealth to a hospital or an educational institution."

"What about men over 40 who would flee to Canada to avoid having their money drafted?"

"The Haak Plan does not provide for amnesty. We think it's the patriotic duty of every American to proudly serve his country, if not with his body, then with his fortune."

"How much of his fortune?"

"Everything," Haak said. "When we draft young men we ask them to give up everything, don't we?"

"It sounds like a crazy plan," I said.

"No crazier than what we've been doing for 10 years. Had the Haak Plan been in effect when we first got into Vietnam, the howls of the money draftees would have been heard from Maine to California. Picture, if you will, millions of well-dressed men in their 40s descending on Washington demanding the President and Congress to end the war. How long do you think any politician could survive if the country were drafting the entire wealth of its middle-age citizens?"

"Not very long," I admitted.

Haak said, "Sending young people off to an undeclared war is a thing people don't like, but will put up with. But drafting the fortunes of the men who stay at home is something nobody in this country will tolerate for very long."

large are better than people: better mannered, less intrusive, filled with larger grace.

Politics intrudes; or at least philosophy intrudes. A guest raises a teasing question: How can a political conservative, consistent with his philosophy of rugged independence, justify the maintenance of two large feeding stations just outside the house? Am I not sanctioning a welfare state, keeping sparrows on the dole, subsidizing the housing of wrens and bluebirds? Brooks Atkinson once raised the question in an essay he wrote for the Audubon magazine. It seems to me an honest exchange: I feed them, they entertain me. Good capitalist workers, my sparrows.

Tomorrow, or the next day, or the next day, we will talk again of senators and cease-fires, of ugliness here and discord there. One hears a thousand speeches on the campaign trail. Not one of them, I regretfully submit, offers as much inspiration, or makes as much sense, as the voice of a junco in a vintage fall.

Officials Are Probing Chicago Rail Tragedy

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal safety officials investigating the commuter train collision which killed 44 persons raised questions today about the strength of the lightweight steel cars used by commuter lines.

In addition to the dead, more than 300 were reported injured Monday when an Illinois Central Gulf Railroad commuter backing into a South Side station was rammed by a second IC electric commuter during the morning rush hour.

Transportation Secretary John Volpe inspected the wreckage in a 40-minute tour. He and Hendy Wakeland, director of the department's Bureau of Transportation Safety, said the strength of the lightweight steel and aluminum cars would be studied.

It took six hours to extricate the last of the dead and injured from the crumpled wreckage of two of the cars, which were crushed like empty beer cans.

President Nixon expressed his sorrow and canceled plans for a downtown campaign motorcade scheduled for today in Chicago.

Sen. George McGovern, campaigning in Pittsburgh, called off a torchlight parade scheduled for Wednesday in Chicago.

Volpe headed a federal investigation team dispatched from Washington to study the collision, the nation's worst rail disaster since 1958 when 48 persons were killed in Elizabethport, N.J.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie ordered a state investigation.

Railroad officials said they could not immediately determine how fast the second train was traveling when it struck the rear of the first commuter.

The first commuter, a shiny, four-car, double-decked High-Liner overshot the 27th Street station and was backing up when it was rammed by the second train.

The second train was made up of six 1926 vintage coaches. Each train carried about 500 passengers.

Officials said that when the first train overshot the station it may have tripped a switch which changed a signal observed by the second train from red to yellow.

They said the yellow signal permitted the second train to travel toward the station at approximately 30 miles an hour, but also indicated to the engineer that the track was clear for 2,000 yards.

The engineer of the second train, Robert W. Cavanaugh, shouted a warning to passengers before the collision. Cavanaugh, who was injured, was among the last victims freed from the wreckage. He was removed by one of four helicopters which joined a dozen ambulances in speeding victims to hospitals.

The accident occurred within 100 yards of Michael Reese Hospital, which immediately initiated its disaster plan.

Hundreds of dead and injured were rushed there as emergency medical teams set up a makeshift emergency room on the station platform.

Sargent Shriver's son reveals shyness

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Sargent Shriver tried in vain Monday to introduce his 13-year-old son Timothy at a news conference.

Squirming in his chair, Timothy just didn't feel like being introduced, even when his father, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, commanded: "Come up here Timmy."

"How," asked Sargent Shriver, smiling at newsmen, "can I convince anyone I'm capable of being vice president if I can't even convince you to come up here with me?"

Authorities reported that three persons in the farmhouse escaped injury although chunks of the plane's fuselage set it afire.

Dr. Charles Johnson, school superintendent, estimated damage might run as high as $10,000. Windows, musical instruments, teaching equipment and other items were broken and paint was poured on many members of the school.

Volpe headed a federal investigation team dispatched from Washington to study the collision, the nation's worst rail disaster since 1958 when 48 persons were killed in Elizabethport, N.J.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie ordered a state investigation.

Railroad officials said they could not immediately determine how fast the second train was traveling when it struck the rear of the first commuter.

The first commuter, a shiny, four-car, double-decked High-Liner overshot the 27th Street station and was backing up when it was rammed by the second train.

The second train was made up of six 1926 vintage coaches. Each train carried about 500 passengers.

Officials said that when the first train overshot the station it may have tripped a switch which changed a signal observed by the second train from red to yellow.

They said the yellow signal permitted the second train to travel toward the station at approximately 30 miles an hour, but also indicated to the engineer that the track was clear for 2,000 yards.

The accident occurred within 100 yards of Michael Reese Hospital, which immediately initiated its disaster plan.

Hundreds of dead and injured were rushed there as emergency medical teams set up a makeshift emergency room on the station platform.

Sargent Shriver's son reveals shyness

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Sargent Shriver tried in vain Monday to introduce his 13-year-old son Timothy at a news conference.

Squirming in his chair, Timothy just didn't feel like being introduced, even when his father, the Democratic vice-presidential candidate, commanded: "Come up here Timmy."

"How," asked Sargent Shriver, smiling at newsmen, "can I convince anyone I'm capable of being vice president if I can't even convince you to come up here with me?"

Authorities reported that three persons in the farmhouse escaped injury although chunks of the plane's fuselage set it afire.

Dr. Charles Johnson, school superintendent, estimated damage might run as high as $10,000. Windows, musical instruments, teaching equipment and other items were broken and paint was poured on many members of the school.

Sen. George McGovern, campaigning in Pittsburgh, called off a torchlight parade scheduled for Wednesday in Chicago.

Louis Harris SurveyPresident Increases His Lead Over McGovern

By LOUIS HARRIS

For the first time since early September, President Nixon has increased his lead over Sen. George McGovern — to 60-32 per cent, a spread of 28 points. This latest Harris Survey was conducted among 1,648 likely voters nationwide between Oct. 24-26.

Thus, the interviewing took place just after Henry Kissinger had returned from well-publicized negotiations on Vietnam, but was three-quarters completed before his White House announcement that "peace is at hand." The Harris Survey is returning to the field to follow voting trends through the final weekend of the election.

Between mid-September and mid-October, Sen. McGovern had cut the Nixon lead from 34 to 25 points. The reversal of this trend in late October must be considered a significant political development at this stage of the Presidential campaign. The reversal can be traced directly to highly positive response from the voters to the imminence of a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war. In this latest Harris Survey, by a 53-42 per cent margin, a majority of voters give Nixon high marks on "negotiating a final settlement of the Vietnam war." Only a week earlier, voter reaction on an identical question was 53-39 per cent negative.

The impact of the Vietnam events is reinforced by two other results that indicate Nixon still faced political problems in other areas: by 51-45 per cent, he continued to receive negative marks on his "keeping the economy healthy" and by 52-36 per cent, voters give him negative marks on "his handling of corruption in government." He nevertheless maintains a lead of landslide proportions against his Democratic opponent.

Obviously, the moving element in the election has become the dramatic events on bringing the war in Vietnam to a close. Even at that, however, no more than one-fourth of this survey was conducted as the terms of the peace settlement were surfacing. It remains to be seen, of course, if the initially positive public reaction to the impending Vietnam agreement will continue to favor Nixon up to Nov. 7.

Last Tuesday through Thursday, 1,648 likely voters were asked in person in their homes this question, as comparable samples of voters had been asked since June: "How would you rate the job President Nixon has done in negotiating a final settlement of the Vietnam war — excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?"

Ann LandersReporter Digs Into Ann's Wash

Dear Ann Landers: As a former resident of Eau Claire, Wisconsin, I was fascinated by your statement that when you lived there, more than 20 years ago, you had the whitest wash on Valmont Avenue.

That statement also intrigued a reporter for The University of Wisconsin campus paper who decided to do some digging on her own. This is what she wrote:

"Dear Ann Landers: It wasn't very nice of you to publicly insult your former neighbors in a column that circulates all over the world. I contacted several women who lived near you in those days and this is what they had to say about your claiming the whitest wash on Valmont Avenue:

"Mrs. Emma Weiss of 1619 Valmont recalled: 'Mrs. Lederer (Ann now) was a nice neighbor. She minded her own business.'"

A few others had similar comments but they preferred to remain anonymous. So it seems, Ann, that no one in Eau Claire remembers your wash as well as you do. Borrowing one of your nuggets of advice, I say, "Count your blessings — but make sure they're yours." — Maggie Menard of The Spectator

Dear Maggie: I remember every one of those women. They were all good neighbors and they minded their own business, too. I apologize if I insulted their laundry. Will you please go back and give them all my warm regards?

Dear Ann Landers: Now that the great American home wrecker (football) is being glorified on all the networks, will you please relay a message to my husband? There is no chance that I can get his attention until January, but he might listen to you.

Dear Husband: I am fast slipping into a state of depression as I face another season of watching you watch the idiot box as if it were the only thing in life that matters.

But then I guess it is. I find it quite remarkable that you chat so easily with the players, whom you don't even know (and who never answer you, of course), while I sit there, the woman who has been married to you for 15 years, bore you three healthy, beautiful children, and I could drop dead in front of your eyes and you wouldn't even notice.

I find it fascinating that you can call each and every player

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.Could Water Cause Stones?

Incidentally, many doctors urge individuals with kidney stones to drink plenty of water to maintain adequate flow from the kidneys. The idea is that dehydration leads to stagnation and possible kidney stone formation. This, of course, is an oversimplification because there are many causes for kidney stones, including vitamin D intoxication, urinary tract infections and softening of the bones with increased amounts of calcium in the blood stream filtered by the kidneys.

The diet; not water, is the main source of minerals and it is particularly important in patients with certain types of stones. By analyzing the type of minerals in a stone the doctor can determine if a special diet would be helpful or not.

There are other things besides kidney stones that cause pain in the side, including pressure on spinal nerves from arthritis and degeneration of the spine, and colon trouble.

Up to the end of October, the turnout in public confidence in the record of the Nixon Administration in negotiating out a settlement of Vietnam has been dramatic and sharp, rising from a pessimistic low of 63-31 per cent in June to the current 53-42 per cent positive.

Here is the trend in the Presidential pairings between President Nixon and Sen. McGovern, in response to this question: "Suppose the election for President were being held right now and you have to choose between Richard Nixon for the Republicans and George McGovern for the Democrats, whom would you be for?"

Nixon-McGovern Trend

July	55	35	10
June	54	38	8
May	48	41	11
April	54	34	12
March	59	32	9

The current 28-point spread for Richard Nixon is almost identical with the result back in March, when the Nixon lead was 27 points.

In this latest survey, Nixon gains have been registered in precisely those groups in the electorate who have been most sensitive to Vietnam in the past:

✓ In the East, the Nixon lead has gone up to 61-30 per cent from 58-35 per cent in mid-October.

✓ In the West, the Nixon margin has risen to 56-38 per cent, up from 52-41 per cent in mid-October.

✓ In the South, however, which has always been more hawkish about the war, Mr. Nixon is ahead by a substantial 62-30 per cent, but this is down from 67-26 per cent in mid-October.

✓ Women now prefer President Nixon by 59-32 per cent, up considerably from the 56-36 per cent margin recorded in mid-October. Women have consistently been more sensitive to the war in Vietnam than men, and hopes for peace clearly are making an impact on the women's vote.

✓ Among young people under 30, the Nixon lead has gone up only marginally during the same period, from 52-44 per cent to 52-43 per cent. This group has been a prime target of Sen. McGovern's campaign efforts. The young may respond to Vietnam more sharply when and if a final peace settlement has been actually signed, since their skepticism on the war has been deepest among any group in the electorate.

Up to this latest Harris Survey, McGovern had continued to gain ground for a period of six weeks, and it appeared that he was making progress chiefly on his charges of corruption and political spying. However, with the dramatic turn of events concerning Vietnam, Nixon now has reversed the trend, temporarily at least, as the campaign heads into its final week.

Reported Hijacker Potential

WASHINGTON (AP) — A father and son charged with two murders in a bank-robbery attempt were pointed out to U.S. airlines last Friday as potential hijackers, officials say.

Two days later, they were charged with hijacking a jetliner to Cuba.

Meanwhile, the Federal Aviation Administration said it is still investigating circumstances surrounding the Sunday hijacking of an Eastern Airlines jet with 40 persons aboard from Houston to Cuba.

Charles Andrew Tuller, 48, and a son, Bryce Matthew Tuller, 19, were charged in warrants with air piracy in the hijacking. The FBI said the two killed an airlines ticket agent and wounded a mechanic in their bid for freedom.

The two were charged with murder in an abortive bank robbery last Wednesday in Arlington, Va., in which a police man and a bank manager were killed.

FAA spokesman Dennis Feldman said the agency sent an alert to airlines, telling them the pair might try to commandeer an airliner, but prescribing no special action for the carriers to follow.

Eastern Airlines officials confirmed they received the FAA alert on Friday and said all Eastern branches were notified.

Federal authorities said a search of the Tullers' apartment in Alexandria, Va., last week produced "more than one parachute," a number of weapons and at least one two-way radio.

Investigators said it was the discovery of these items which caused them to believe the father and son planned to hijack or steal an airplane.

Requests School Meeting

NEW YORK (AP) — A minister who has emerged as a spokesman for blacks in the Brooklyn school crisis called Monday night for a "rap" session among parents and students on both sides of the volatile issue.

Communication between blacks escorting their youngsters into the racially mixed Junior High School 211 in Canarsie and whites who want them transferred out has been limited to insults and accusations exchanged across police lines.

Speaking on a local radio show, the Rev. Wilbert Miller said, "Let us rap, the people. Let the people talk to people and leave the professionals out of it."

Twenty-nine of the 32 minority group students, residents of the Tilden Housing project in Brownsville, entered 211 for the second day Monday, greeted again by a throng of some 1,400 jeering white parents.

A boycott by white students kept about 9,000 students out of classes with the closing of six elementary schools and a junior high school in the district. Two grade schools reopened during the day with a scant percentage of their usual enrollment.

Nearly a full complement of teachers but only about 70 other students, all said to be black, were inside 211 when the Tilden students were brought in, accompanied by Schools Chancellor Harvey B. Scribner. The school, which is 70 per cent white, has an enrollment of 1,400.

White parents have steadfastly denied that racial discrimination is the issue. They claim that 211 is already overcrowded, although many express fear that the racial balance of the school is in danger of being "tipped."

Cernan made the remark Monday after battling brisk winds to make a successful flight aboard a rocket-powered moon-landing simulator.

Apollo 17 will be launched Dec. 6. Cernan will be flying with astronauts Harrison H. Schmitt and Ron Evans. Schmitt and Cernan will land on the moon while Evans remains in orbit.

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Salvador Allende has the flu.

A presidential press spokesman said that Allende came down with the flu Sunday but went to his offices as usual Monday to carry out his normal duties.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 17 commander Eugene Cernan says "I'm ready" for the moon mission in December.

Cernan made the remark Monday after battling brisk winds to make a successful flight aboard a rocket-powered moon-landing simulator.

Apollo 17 will be launched Dec. 6. Cernan will be flying with astronauts Harrison H. Schmitt and Ron Evans. Schmitt and Cernan will land on the moon while Evans remains in orbit.

He said he expects the POWs to be handed over to an American Peace group rather than to a government agency.

The group which invited them to Hanoi, he said, is the North Vietnamese Committee on Solidarity with the American People. The groups handled the release of three American prisoners to American peace movement leaders recently.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Rev. Daniel Berrigan has been denied permission by the U.S. Parole Board to go to North Vietnam.

A Justice Department spokesman said Monday that the board voted to reject the request, made on behalf of Berrigan by former Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, because of the active peace negotiations going on between Hanoi and Washington.

Berrigan, 52, who was convicted in the Catonsville, Md., draft board raid, was granted parole last Jan. 26.

Chilean Situation Improves

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Prospects for an improvement in Chile's tense political situation improved somewhat Tuesday with the resignation of President Salvador Allende's interior minister and the government's announcement that it was ready to talk again with the leaders of a three-week-old strike.

Economy Minister Carlos Matus said the government was willing to discuss the economic issues behind the strikes crippling the economy. But Matus said political demands of the striking shopkeepers, small businessmen and professional men would not be negotiated.

A reply from the strike leaders was expected Tuesday or Wednesday.

Marxist President Allende broke off discussions with them last Friday, saying they were making political demands that could prevent him from exercising his constitutional authority. Generally the strikers oppose Allende's plans to convert Chile to socialism.

The resignation of Interior Minister Jaime Suarez was apparently the first step toward reshuffling of the cabinet. There are persistent rumors that at least two cabinet posts will be offered to the traditionally nonpolitical military in an attempt to appease Allende's political opponents, who control Congress.

Voter Residency Ruling Is Given

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal court panel of three judges has knocked down Missouri's voter residency requirement of one year for voting in state and local elections and 60 days for voting for president and vice president.

The panel, in a decision reached Friday but not intended to be announced until Tuesday, set 30 days as the minimum required residency period for all elections in Missouri.

A permanent order was signed by U.S. District Court Judges William H. Becker and Elmo B. Hunter and Floyd R. Gibson, of the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

In a temporary injunction Sept. 22, the court ordered all county clerks to begin registering newcomers to the state, but their registration was kept separate from others in case the temporary order was reversed.

The suit was brought against Cole County Clerk Monte L. Christian by Daniel P. Card II, an assistant attorney general who was denied registration after he moved to the county in July.

The class action ruling will affect about 20,000 Missourians who would not have been allowed to vote under the one-year requirement for state and local offices, according to unofficial estimates.

All out-of-state students also would be entitled to vote under the ruling.

On Oct. 4, Federal Judge William R. Collinson issued a temporary restraining order enjoining all county clerks from refusing to register students who live in dormitories and students who are not voting in another state by absentee ballot.

Kansas City — Voter-residency add: Ballot.

The decision was based on the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, forbidding denial of equal protection under the law.

In July, Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth, basing his opinion on the U.S. Supreme Court's decision overturning Tennessee's one-year requirement, said 28 days should be the residency requirement.

Danforth's decision was based on the minimum closing period between registration and the Nov. 7 election in Missouri counties with registration.

But Cole County Circuit Judge James T. Riley instructed Christian not to register voters under the Danforth opinion because it was not law, just an opinion.

In August, a St. Charles County circuit judge upheld Danforth's opinion.

Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick, allowed to intervene in the federal court case, suggested 30 days as the minimum residency requirement.

The federal court order says that "all constitutional, statutory and other provisions of Missouri law denying to any resident, domiciled citizen of Missouri the right to register and vote in the general election

... before the close of registration, which is fixed by law at no later than either Oct. 10, 1972, or Oct. 11, 1972, depending on the applicable statute, are unconstitutional and void under the 14th amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

The order said the decision also applied to precincts where registration is not required.

Say Missionaries Captured in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Military sources said today three American missionaries and a Canadian were captured by the Communist Pathet Lao on Saturday in an undefended town in southern Laos.

The sources said the troops walked into Kengkok, a town of 10,000, and captured it. Two other American missionaries and seven Filipinos escaped and an Air America helicopter picked them up.

Promoted

Gayle D. Fletcher, CLU, formerly of Smithton, has been named district sales manager of Metropolitan Life's Arcadia, Calif., branch. He will manage a sales force and clerical staff of 42 persons. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Fletcher, 204 East Boonville, he is married to the former Glenda Glaylock.

K-9 First

"Bruiser," a 13-month-old dog who looks like a giant Scottie, is the first K-9 police dog of his kind in the nation. Bruiser is a purebred Bovier des Flanders, a canine native of Belgium. The other 37 dogs on the Baltimore Police force are all of German ancestry.
